

Agility Association of Canada / Association d'Agilité du Canada

I accepted the nomination for NB-PEI region for the second time this year. I've been involved in organizing and running the Fun at Home League this spring and summer and the NQTN event this fall. The AAC Board has made many temporary changes in response to Covid-19 and the possibility of more restriction to actual trials. We are working with video trials as a way for people to participate in agility from close to home if the need arises.

The past two years have been a time of experience and learning for me. There is a lot of work behind the scenes to make a trial happen and to have regulations which provide safe equipment and an environment that promotes a good experience for all who take part. The rulebook is constantly being rewritten to give an up to date perspective on all different aspects of the game.

The AAC is a democracy. The board members are elected and all members have a voice in who represents them. In a democracy not everyone agrees on how things should be done. Constructive criticism is a positive thing and can lead to change if enough people want it. If you have ideas about how to make agility better during the pandemic, now would be a good time to bring them out for discussion.

There is no election in this region but please vote for the executive positions that are being contested this year.

George Mills

Regional Director for New Brunswick/PEI