

Ivy Seney

I first discovered agility when I got my 1st Beagle in 2000. I would watch Top Dog a TV show about various dog sports and quite often agility was showcased. A friend I had been in Obedience classes with told me there was someone teaching in our area. I contacted the trainer to see when the next session would start which was in about a month. By the end of that first session, I was hooked. I went on to start competing in 2003 and have titled multiple dogs to Agility Trial Champion and multiple Podium placements at both the Regional and National level. I have been a Masters level judge for AAC since 2009, a judge for UKI and trial secretary since 2004. I have been Regional Director Vancouver Island several times as I enjoy supporting the primary organization I compete in and previously served on the JSAC. Agility allows me to play with my dogs and meet wonderful people. I have been an instructor since 2010 and believes in positive reinforcement-based training. In 2023 I helped with the organizing and hosting of our Regional competition.